Yokkaichi, Japan, June 29, 2016 - Ubacoda is proud to announce the release of 'Today', a powerful to-do task list application for iOS and Android.

Today is available on phone and tablet devices on iOS and Android and packs a ton of features. Mark tasks done with a single tap. Personalize the app with a selection of colors. Set times for goal completion and choose to be notified. Create and group lists. Clear done tasks with a single gesture, and many more!

"Today has many features that are sure to make the lives of those who use it easier and more productive. We even use Today to develop the app, so we have ideas on how we can improve it and hope to add many more new features along the way", says the developer.

Today keeps you in control of your day, making it easy for you to enter entire lists all at once and then split each item into individual tasks. When you get it all done, just tap to check the items off the list and drag down to remove them all with a single gesture. Getting your tasks in order has never been easier.

"We are positive that 'Today' for iOS and Android provides an immediate solution for people who find organizing long lists of task a task in itself. 'Today' does all the hard work so you can focus on what is important... getting things done", the developer continues.
